Holiday Soccer Classic

For soccer fans, this is one of the biggest weekends of the year, the Holiday Soccer Classic in Pleasanton. Ballistic Soccer Club sponsors three days of age-group competition involving teams from all over North America.

It started Friday, continued yesterday, and concludes with championship matches today.

Teams from all over the West and Canada are entered once again to face the top local clubs from Dublin, Livermore Pleasanton and San Ramon.

For pictures and coverage of this year's tournament so far, see sports in today's Times.

Cheese firm's waste discharge stirs storm

PLEASANTON — "I don't think it's gross and unreasonable, but it doesn't reflect the spirit of cooperation we feel we've had with the city," says owner of The Cheese Factory George Spiliotopoulos, referring to the city staff report released Wednesday which sharply criticizes the factory on Main Street for failing to meet sewage discharge standards stipulated in Spiliotopoulos's permit.

In that report, the city's director of public works and utilities Alan Campbell recommends the city council shut down the factory if Spiliotopoulos doesn't begin meeting all the regulations he agreed to six months ago when that permit was issued.

Spiliotopoulos, a former council member and planning commissioner, says he understood the regulations to be goals that he would try to meet. But city council members and staff say those regulations were supposed to be strictly complied with before the six month review period ended last month.

Claiming he has spent over $80,000 trying to meet those regulations,' Spiliotopoulos says, "If the city has financial problems all they have to do is raise taxes to balance their budget, but we're a business and can't operate like that. If the political climate is changing in Pleasanton, we'll have to leave. Obviously we don't want to stay here if the city doesn't want us."

Yet in the report Campbell says many of the permit stipulations never met cost little money. And he wrote in his report, "many of the conditions in the permit could have and should have been met almost immediately."

Although staff's recommendation is that the council tell Spiliotopoulos to meet the conditions or face a cease and desist order, council member Frank Brandes believes the factory should be shut down now.

"He didn't come before the city to say he had problems complying, so I say the city has no choice but to find him in violation now." Brandes urged the council six months ago to make the factory take out a permit just as any other industry and begin paying industrial sewer fees. Previously, The Cheese Factory paid an average monthly fee of $46 —$670 less than it is now charged.

Brandes expects to be the sole council member pushing to find the factory in violation of the 1966 city ordinance for industrial waste. Mayor Bob Philcox takes a more lenient viewpoint of the city landmark since 1920.

"If he (Spiliotopoulos) can't comply with steps he agreed to, then perhaps we should look at what standards he can meet and see if they are agreeable to us," he says, adding that less stringent regulations will likely mean higher sewer fees for the factory to pay.

According to the staff report, the factory exceeded biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) and chemical oxygen demand (COD) levels most of the test days. The ph level was lower than required all but one of the 27 days tested. And the factory's suspended solids exceeded the acceptable level all but five of those days.

If Campbell's recommendation is adopted, Spiliotopoulos would have 30 days to meet most permit regulations and 120 days in which to hire a sanitary engineering consultant to begin solving the factory's BOD and COD problem.

Council members will consider what action to take at their meeting Tuesday, 30 West Angela Street, at 8 p.m.

Airport's big commute rush

Single strip keeps controllers busy

Good weather on Thanksgiving day kept the controllers at Livermore Municipal Airport on their toes as some 600 planes used the runway for landings and takeoffs.

"It was a little more traffic than we normally have," said assistant tower chief Bob Siders who noted that as many as 800 planes used the strip on a peak day a couple months ago.

"We have a single runway and you can't land as many aircraft as quickly," Siders said.

Eight controllers man the three story, window-walled tower which is supposed to be notified of any traffic approaching a five-mile radius. Landing and takeoff jurisdiction of the tower accounts for a three mile area. Only two or three persons work in the roost per shift during operating hours between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m.

This weekend, as has been the custom for the past couple years, a swarm of "war birds" — fighter planes from past World Wars — are expected to congregate at the Livermore Airport for an annual club meeting.

"They should be flying in tonight and over the weekend," Siders pointed out Friday. "We had a lot of calls wondering when they were coming. They're all beautiful airplanes like the P-40, 'Flying Tiger' that pilot John Paul keeps here."

Although it would be speculation, Siders said he doubted whether an air traffic controller 'sick out' would increase the volume of traffic at Livermore. He projected the amount of air traffic during Christmas would be no more than usual.

According to Siders, life in the Livermore tower is not like working in a radar environment. The runway there is only 4,005 feet in length and commercial airlines have limits on the size of craft that can land on such a runway. This means that much of the work by these controllers is keeping in radio contact with small private planes which are readily identified by peering at them through binoculars.

Reach agreement

SR school bus drivers won't go on strike

DANVILLE — Agreement has been reached in contract negotiations between the San Ramon Valley Unified School District and its bus drivers, custodians, repairment and groundskeepers — averting a threatened strike.

Terms of a new two-year contract were reached in a special meeting called last week by officials with Service Employees International Local 390, AFL-CIO.

According to Kathryn Hames, field representatives for local 390, the contract includes new salary, holiday, transfer, overtime and agency shop provisions.

The new salary agreement calls for a one-time payment of $240 per full-time employee from July 1977 to December. In January all employees will receive a 5 percent salary hike.

All Local 390 members also will receive a "flaoting" holiday starting in June, 1978 in addition to regular vacation and official district holidays.

Another provision rules out transfers on the basis of employee evaluations.

The new contract stipulated that overtime be regulated on a rotating basis preference to employees with seniority.

Employees will vote on whether to institute a modified agency shop, in which all workers pay the equivalent of union dues.

The district also agreed to conduct a survey of wages paid employees in similar occupations to that of the Local 390 workers in other Bay Area school districts.

A bus driver strike threat loomed early last week after negotiations stalled over pay and holiday questions. The Central Labor Council of Contra Costa had granted strike sanction to the employees, who were then threatened with termination by the district in the event of a walkout.

Traditional Yule season sales scored

Christmas shoppers swarmed into local stores bent on getting the jump on the jolly season.

Friday, store managers in Pleasanton, Livermore, Dublin and San Ramon said people were acting true to form by beginning their Christmas shopping in earnest the day after Thanksgiving.

Crowds were two to three times larger than normal, according to managers.

Christmas wrap, tags, ornaments, ribbon and toys were leading sales. Novelty items, adult games and clothing ran a close second.

"We saw some increase in crowds last week but today is the big day," said Dan Rossberg.

He is K-Mart's senior assistant manager in Dublin.

"People seem to be shopping earlier each year since they are learning selections are better if they don't wait too late," Rossberg added.

Kiyo Otsuki, secretary to the manager of Dublin's Liberty House, said there was a definite customer increase Friday. The season rather than sale merchandise was more responsible for the increase, Otsuki indicated. "Business is booming," said James Daugherty, manager of Mervyns in Dublin. "Crowds are three times larger than normal."

Santa arrived Friday at Mervyns.

Nutcracker cancelled

The scheduled 6:30 performance this evening of the Nutcracker Ballet, a benefit for the Golden Acorn Chapter of the Childrens Home Society, has been cancelled because of lack of ticket sales.

A 2:30 performance at Livermore High School will be presented as scheduled. Persons with tickets to the evening performance may use then this afternoon or obtain a refund at the door this evening.

The Santa Clara Baliet Company is presenting The Nutcracker.

Santa Rita to high court

The battle over press access to Santa Rita Jail goes before the U.S. Supreme Court Tuesday.

The high court will hear arguments from lawyers representing San Francisco television station KQED and Alameda County on whether news people should be admitted to the Pleasanton facility to make random interviews.

Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins has banned such interviews and the use of cameras and tape recorders. A federal judge ruled in 1975 that the ban was not justified, and the county appealed to the Supreme Court.

Arguments will be heard Tuesday. A decision in the case may not be rendered for months.

Santos Ranch Rd. debate

Alameda County Supervisors will discuss the possible abandonment of Santos Ranch Road at a public hearing at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the county administration building, 1221 Oak St., Oakland.

Property owners on the Pleasanton Ridge oppose the abandonment, thinking the maintainance of the road and possible accident liability for it will cost them a great deal.

The city doesn't want abandonment because if property owners have to give up their land, the city doesn't want it either. The properties may not be resellable, especially if the road switches to a private one.

The county planning commission tomorrow will consider whether abandonment of the road is consistent with the general plan. It's a technical requirement of a county ordinance and it is expected the commission will find abandonment consistent with the general plan.

Fair's $.75 million jewel

Exhibit hall springs a leak

PLEASANTON— The 2½-year old Young California Building, the three-quarters of a million dollars exhibition grand dame of the Alameda County Fairgrounds, continues to spring a leak.

First utilized on April 30 of 1975, and subsequently for youth events during Fair time and tennis play the remainder of the year, the building reportedly has had a water leakage problem since it opened.

Fair directors were told earlier this month that the county has inspected the building, and has determined that the major cracks are in the south wall of the 75,000 seuare foot building.

Construction of the building was supervised by the county.

The water leakage problem became evident again earlier this month when rain fell on both Nov. 4 and 20.

According to Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the County Fair Association, and Lou Alexander, maintenance chief, the rain of Nov. 4 "really poured into the building."

When contacted at Tennis Faire, the operation housed in the building and run by the City of Pleasanton, manager Marv Silva said he was sending a letter to Bud Garrigan, chairman of the Pleasanton Parks and Recreation Commission, detailing the long-standing problem.

While noting that the large sliding doors and other entry doors were among the vulnerable spots, Silva pointed to the carpet in his office, which was stained from previous water leaks.

Silva said he and other staff members had spent untold hours in the past mopping up the surface around the courts, often while players were trying to play a game.

"The water gets in here through the entry ways," Silva commented, "and works under the covering on the surface. The water also puddles-up around the courts and we have to mop it up."

Silva claimed he mopped around the courts until 11 o'clock after the heavy rains of last Sunday and Monday.

At their meeting earlier this month, Fair directors were told it would cost $27 a gallon for sealer to cover 45 square feet of the building deemed vulnerable or known to have cracks.

The city operates the tennis concession throughout the year, save for a period before, during and shortly after the annual two-week Fair.

Stark's good rating

WASHINGTON — Public Citizen, a Ralph Nader - affiliated group which says it is pro-consumer, has issued ratings of politicians based on voting records.

The ratings are based on 40 roll calls on such issues as consumer protection, oil and gas policy, atomic power, tax revision, ecology, government subsidies and government revisions.

For example, a rating of 90 percent means the member voted with the group's "pro-consumer" attitudes on 36 of the 40 votes.

Rep. Pete Stark (D-Oakland), the Valley's congressman, received an 80, and Rep. George Miller, (D-Martinez), representing parts of Contra Costa County, received an 83.

U.S. Senator Alan Cranston (D-Calif.), got a 73, while U.S. Senator S.I. Hayakawa (R-Calif) got an eight.

Thanksgiving death on freeway

A 38-year-old Pinole man was killed Thanksgiving night when his car struck a center divider on Interstate 680, went out of control and rolled down an embankment, the highway patrol reported Friday.

Richard Anthony Gomez of 2614 Wright Ave. was pronounced dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore a short time later.

According to a highway patrol spokesman, Gomez' vehicle was westbound on I-580 and turned onto I-680 about 11:10 p.m. His car was traveling at a high rate of speed, the spokesman said, when it struck the center divider, went out of control and crossed back over the northbound lanes where it ran off the highway and rolled several times down the embankment.

No other persons were injured in the accident.

Youth with gun sought

PLEASANTON — A man brandishing a gun attempted to enter an occupied car parked outside a laundry at the Amador Shopping Center on Santa Rita Road Wednesday, but was frightened off when the woman occupant tried to motion to her husband who was inside the laundry.

Police called out their K-9 patrol and a police dog caught the suspect's scent, following it to Valley Avenue. Police found fresh footprints in the area but could not locate a suspect in the dark.

The suspect is described as a white male, about 16 with blond hair.

LIVERMORE — An alert sheriff's deputy who noticed that keys hanging from the ignition of a car he stopped had dealer tags led to the arrest of two men who allegedly stole two new cars from Tri-Valley Datsun Tuesday.

The dealer was called to the lot and confirmed that two new Datsun 280-Zs were missing. When the car's serial numbers reportedly matched up, two suspects were arrested and booked on suspicion of auto theft.

An investigation showed that burglars had entered the lot by pushing down a fence. Police did not release names of the suspects.

LIVERMORE — A Vista Court burglary was broken up Tuesday when witnesses pursued two suspects who were removing stereo equipment from a residence there, police reported.

The witnesses told police they knew the resident wasn't home, so called officers and then chased the suspects until they dropped the stereo on Oregon Way.

A short time later, police arrested two 14-year-old youths who matched the suspects' descriptions. The suspects were booked on suspicion of burglary.

LIVERMORE — A teacher at Livermore High School broke up a drug deal at the school Monday, police reported.

Several youths were clustered in an area between the pool and the girls' gym when a teacher approached and saw one youth allegedly attempting to sell marijuana cigarettes for a dollar each.

A 17-year-old youth was booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana with intent to sell, and a 15-year-old youth was booked on suspicion of possessing a small amount of pot.

LIVERMORE — A man leaving Granada Bowl Monday was allegedly beaten by one of three men who were frightened off when a witness approached to intervene, police reported.

One suspect struck the victim several times and then ran off, warning the victim not to testify in an upcoming court case.

The incident is under investigation.

LIVERMORE — A Granada High School teacher complained of back pain after being pushed repeatedly by student, police reported.

The student reportedly pushed the teacher into a chair while his class looked on, officers reported. The investigation is continuing.

LIVERMORE — Two Oakland men were arrested on suspicion of auto theft Thursday after citizens complained about reckless driving near Alden and Orion streets, police reported.

Police spotted a vehicle matching the description of a car driving carelessly in the area and ran a computer check that showed the car had been stolen from Alameda. Several pills were found in the car's center console, police said.

Two Oakland men, aged 19 and 16, were booked on suspicion of auto theft.

LIVERMORE — Police stopped two youths riding illegally on a biycle Monday and discovered the bike was reported stolen, officers reported.

The bike had reportedly been stolen from a Findlay Way home Nov. 3. Two youths, aged 14 and 15, were booked on suspicion of burglary.

Department store traffic was way up all over the region, managers reported.

Post turkey day shoppers abound

anton said they "were a lot busier than usual."

Ken Leone, manager of Livermore's Montgomery Ward and Co. catalog sales store, said customer volume had doubled.

"All items seem to be selling equally well," he said.

The last two weeks have been very busy at J.C. Penney Co. Inc. in Livermore, according to Manager Bob Bruns.

But Friday showed an increase, he added. That store does not carry toys. Other items were selling well, Bruns said.

He added that Santa would be appearing at the store a bit closer to Christmas.

Sup. Raymond opposes new county consumers' agency

OAKLAND — A recent call for establishing a county consumer affairs department may not be warranted for a variety of reasons, said Supervisor Valerie Raymond last week.

The state has such a department and supposedly is effective in doing its work, said Raymond.

In addition, the county already has departments which delve into various aspects of consumer affairs. And the budget is so tight that it doesn't seem a propitious time to establish a new department because departments cost money to run and invariably get bigger.

The only way Raymond would go for a department of consumer affairs is if such a creation actually saved the county money and worked better for consumers.

Maybe a new department would coordinate better the existing county consumer protection activities. A study is underway to see if that would be true and Raymond will make her decision after she sees that study.

But if a new consumer affairs department took money from mental health or from people who otherwise are without adequate nutrition, she would oppose it.

Hiring a county ombudsman is another way to deal with consumer complaints, said Raymond. This person would investigate complaints by homeowners that county departments failed in their job of protecting the consumer.

Such a complaint was heard a couple of weeks ago by supervisors. Kathleen Peterson of San Leandro alleped that the county building inspector okayed an a supposedly crummy remodeling job on her home. And the district attorney's consumer fraud department would not prosecute the contractor and would not even tell Peterson the reasons for not prosecuting, she claimed.

The county staff will play ombudsman and have a report on those charges in another week or so.

An ombudsman may not be needed, though. That's supposed to be one of the jobs a supervisor does, said Raymond.

"We always follow through on anyone who calls us. We either rectify the problem, or, if the staff is right and not much can be done, we tell them as nicely as we can."

Evaluation unit proves worth

OAKLAND — Alameda County government has a special department, Office of Program Evaluation, which is supposed to evaluate programs run by various county departments.

The evaluators were evaluated themselves recently by an outside consultant and found to have a significant effect on 75 per cent of the programs checked in the sample.

County supervisors were impressed when they heard that. Supervisor Fred Cooper said that improving administration in that many programs may not save the county any money outright, but no doubt it means that "the county won't have to hire more people to spin wheels" in certain programs.

Matt Golden, who heads OPE, heard some concerns from Supervisor Joseph Bort that the bottom line might really be how OPE could make overt suggestions on how to save even more money.

"If you want us to do that, we will have to change our whole approach," said Golden. "We will have to get right in there and make cost-cutting recommendations."

Supervisors didn't call for any changes in OPE's operations, though. It was an exploratory session, something to give them an overview of OPE's operations and perhaps set a few ideas ruminating in their heads.

One recommendation the supervisors might ponder is the notion that OPE's evaluations sometimes cause frictions with various department heads.

The consultant suggested that OPE confer regularly with County Administrator Loren Enoch, who can communicate the views of the department heads.

County area policing costs stir Livermore

OAKLAND — City of Livermore's concern about the cities subsidizing police costs in the unincorporated areas will have to wait another year.

Supervisor Valerie Raymond told The Times last week that the Alameda County Mayors Conference discussed Livermore's complaint recently, but decided the point will be affected greatly by incorporation efforts underway in Castro Valley and Dublin.

If those two areas incorporate, it would mean a great reduction in police services provided by the county sheriff's department.

The new cities, if that's what their residents choose to become, either will form their own police departments or will contract with the county or a neighboring city for police services.

If they contract with the county, they obviously would be paying their own way, said Raymond.

The results of incorporation efforts in both areas are expected to be known by the election of November, 1978.

Livermore had complained that the unincorporated areas have cost the county $600,000 in police services, a deficit made up by county taxpayers living in the cities.

However, closer scrutiny showed that Dublin actually contributes more to county revenues through its high sales tax generation than it takes out in police services.

County sets 'Olympics' for police

OAKLAND — Los Angeles still may be quibbling over how and whether it will host the 1984 Olympic Games, but one thing is certain — Alameda County will play host to the Olympic Games in 1979.

The Police Olympics, that is.

It seems the police have their own track and field competition, although they shun such possibilities as a patrol car steeplechase and stick to the basic thinclad pursuits. For 1979, they've picked Alameda County as the site, Supervisor Charles Santana announced last week.

Safe streets suit on hold

PLEASANTON — The on-going suit by the Pleasanton Safe Streets Association (PSSA) against Morrison Homes and the city council has taken a new turn.

Morrison Homes last week made a motion before Alameda county Superior Court Judge M. Sabraw asking for a summary judgement in the case.

Judge Sabraw denied Oct. 26 PSSA's own motion for such a judgement.

The 13 plaintiffs in the suit are asking for the court to order the citY and Morrison Homes to prepare a new Environmental Impact Report specifically dealing with how the Del Valle Parkway planned to be built in front of their homes will affect nearby residents. The suit also asks the court to revoke the council's approval for planned unit development on Morrison's Creek's Bend Development out near Hopyard Road.

PSSA attorney Joe Brecher says he'll oppose Morrison's motion for a summary judgement and again file PSSA's own request. Judge Sabraw could, in a summary judgement, rule for either party or deny both motions, thus forcing the suit into court for a trial. He is scheduled to rule on Morrison's motion Dec. 13.oOlga Morrow, one of the plaintiffs, says PSSA has always maintained the four-lane parkway is not safe for residents as planned. The Del Valle is planned to be constructed immediately next to homes. Morrow claims homeowners will be threatened by on-comine cars every time they try to pull out of their driveways if the parkway is built there.

"We feel the parkway should be moved over to the Arroyo del Valle (about 75 yards from the homes). And we feel strongly that our issue has been safety — ll along for the past few years that's been our issue."

The city and Morrison, however, claim even if the parkway was built by the arroyo it would still pass homes because Morrison has planned a housing development right there. Morrow counters by saying Morrison could change the plan.

A conclusion to the suit filed last August is at least a month away and could be longer if the Judge refuses to rule and the suit goes to trial, meanwhile leaving construction at Creek's Bend in temporary limbo.

Cityhood forces meet in Dublin

DUBLIN — The Dublin Chamber of Commerce steering committee and Citizens' for Dublin Cityhood representatives laid groundwork for building a pro or con case regarding Dublin's proposed incorporation.

The two groups met for the first time Tuesday night at the Dublin Chamber of Commerce office.

Citizens' for Dublin Cityhood chairman is Dave Burton.

Volunteer chamber steering committee members are Todd Lee, Leo Bergeron, Paul Moffat, Tom Driver, Tim Baldwin, Ron Pacheco and Jim Griffes. Baldwin and Griffes are committee co-chairman.

Griffes, Pastor of John Knox Presbyterian Church in Dublin, is the only member of the steering committee who is not a chamber director. He is a chamber member.

The function of the steering committee is to get specific information on cityhood. Citizens' for Dublin Cityhood committees help gather information.

The latter group has been in existence since March. Five separate committees within the group have been researching cityhood. The chamber steering committee was formed to verify their facts plus lend official clout.

Budgets and contracts were discussed between the two groups during the first session.

Captain Dennis Jeffery of the Alameda County Sheriff's Department presented an overview of what kind of law enforcement services could be provided if Dublin cityhood should take place.

He indicated Dublin could have whatever level of services its citizens would pay for. One exception is that the sheriff's department cannot contract for less service than Dublin is receiving now.

Positive action was taken when the steering committee agreed to write a letter to Alameda County Board of Supervisors requesting $1000 to pay for a feasibility study. The $1000 was earmarked earlier for this purpose. It was to be used by the Dublin chamber. Chamber officers decided it would be better to turn the money over to the Citizen's for Dublin Cityhood letting them use it as they saw fit. At that time the chamber thought it best to not get officially involved.

They changed their minds later after conducting an opinion poll among 245 members. Chamber members voted three to one that the chamber should become officially involved in studying incorporation pros and cons.

Beverly Lane, a veteran of incorporation proceedings, volunteered to do the feasibility study. The $1000 will pay her fee.

Citizens' for Dublin Cityhood representatives will approach the board of supervisors in person to request the $1000 go to Lane.

The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) directors had agreed to sponsor a feasiblity study. However, during a regular board meeting, VCSD directors said they weren't sure $1000 would pay for a totally effective study.

Chamber steering committee members said they needed a preliminary study as soon as possible. They indicated Lane would be able to provide such study for $1000.

Alternatives to incorporation will also be studied by the two groups. The choices are annexation, status quo and incorporation or combinations of incorporation.

Hospital expansion

Livermore Veterans Administration Hospital Director James M. Fleenor (left), John (Red) Leffler, associate deputy administrator of the VA's central office, and John F. Kane, chief of staff, recently toured the hospital's new administration and research building. Construction began in October, 1976 and should be completed by February. The complex is 18,000 square feet and cost approximately $1.8 million. Now 95 per cent complete, the building will house administration and research personnel at the hospital.

Life saving course in Pleasanton

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation means life-sustaining techniques — and knowing that can mean the difference of life or death for heart attack, drowning, choking and poison victims.

Beginning Jan. 23, the Pleasanton department of recreation and human resources will offer classes in CPR under a new "Emergency Response" program. "Emergency Response" includes CPR, Red Cross first aid training and information on where to call for emergency services.

Two general information programs are scheduled for Jan. 19 and Feb. 13, at 8 p.m., at the Cultural Arts Center in town.

Talk on coping with youthful diabetes

LIVERMORE — "Coping with Juvenile Diabetes" will be the topic of the first scheduled meeting of the new Lifeline, Diabetes In Youth group Tuesday night.

The meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Family Medical Center of Valley Memorial Hospital, 9260 Alcosta Blvd., San Ramon.

Drs. Myron Cohen and Geraldine Donaldson, pediatricians, and Dr. Elwood Greist, surgeon, will head the panel discussion.

The organization is sponsored by the Alameda-Contra Costa Chapter of American Diabetes Association in Oakland. It is for parents and children with juvenile diabetes.

Monthly meetings will be held on various related topics, with the Jan. 11 meeting already slated for "Insurance - Life, Medical" panel discussion. The group also plans some family outings during the year such as pizza and roller skating in February and miniature golf in April.

For further information on the group, contact Rosemary Coleman at 447-6978. Anyone interested in getting on the mailing list of the group for future events should contact Susan Saffell at 829-0808.

Vandalism free SRV high school has pride

By KATHLEEN MACLAY
Times Staff Writer

DANVILLE — The vandalism-free record at Del Amigo High School is an irony — one that the students and administrators love.

That's because for more than seven years discipline at San Ramon Valley's only continuation school has been handled in an unusual way.

Harold Davis, Del Amigo's principal, said in the past when any of the 140 students were found writing on school walls or committing other acts of vandalism, they were sent to the small complex at the north end of San Ramon High's football field.

Susan Amell, a former Monte Vista High student, remembered:

"Everybody was really into destruction. I know I was," she said in a meeting of the Del Amigo student council. "Nobody cares."

But Amell, and other students, said that changed after coming to Del Amigo — out of their own choice and by peer pressure.

"We respect our school," said Kathy Hanson, another student, a past council president. "And we're not going to ruin something we've kept up."

That, said Davis, is part of Del Amigo's secret.

When he started as the school's principal in 1970, Davis said the campus was "a weed patch."

He said the students asked him for smoking privileges. Being a businessman of sorts, Davis worked out a deal.

They got the privilege of smoking on campus during breaks and in the office. But the students' deal also included the responsibility of planting Del Amigo's landscaping, putting in roads, then maintaining their handiwork.

"You build it up, and I don't think you destroy something you build," said Davis, echoing the students' views.

"It isn't like the district did it," said student Ken Morrell. "We have part of ourselves in it."

But Davis said there is more to student involvement at Del Amigo than physical maintenance work.

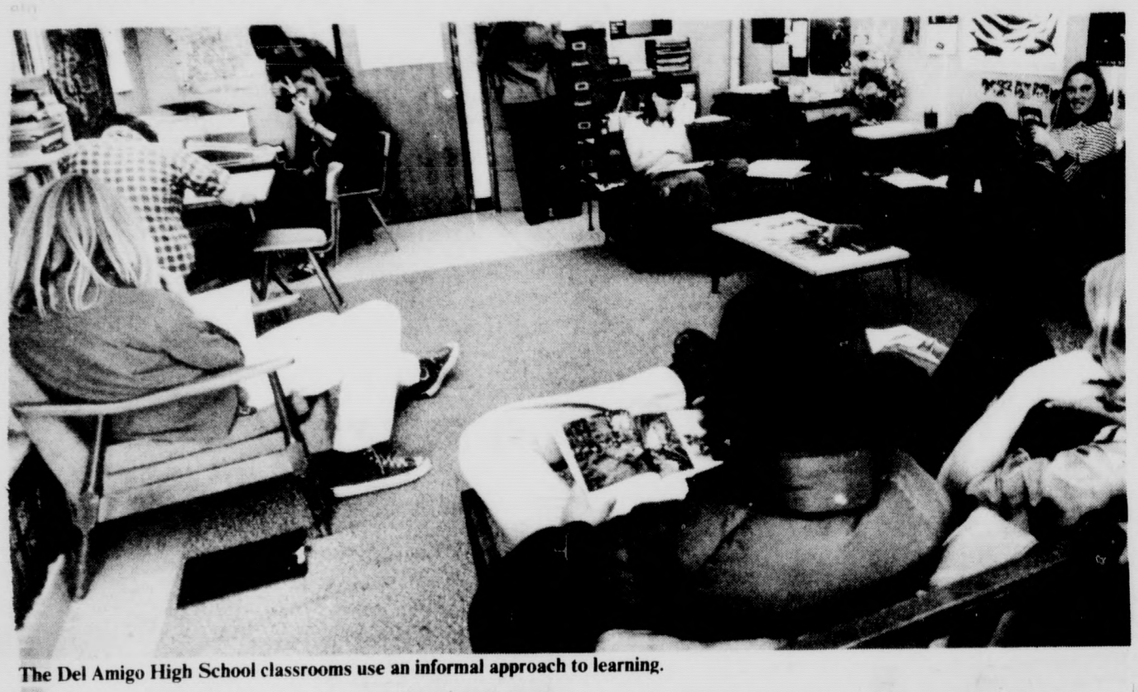
The students also have a voice in the way the school operates, ranging from interviewing prospective teachers and making recommendations to the administration, to evaluating teachers on the job.

Even Davis gets a critique from the students, with the evaluations sent straight to his superior, the district superintendent.

"There's a lot of power in there," said Davis.

That power, he and students agreed, is coupled with a lot of responsibility such as keeping a neat and orderly campus and refraining from vandalism.

"You have to be responsible for yourself here, or you don't make it," said Hanson.



The Del Amigo High School classrooms use an informal approach to learning.

Students involved in campus policies generate goodwill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — One successful program against school vandalism lets students and parents help in hiring teachers and principals, a legislative subcommittee was told this week.

Elements of the same program include organized mural painting, an anti-rumor squad, and a student court.

And at one school, Santa Barbara High, the program is run by a 50-year-old with an eighth-grade education who was working as a gardener at a junior high school when someone noticed the students were getting better advice from him than from their counselors.

The Assembly Educational Reform Subcommittee, studying vandalism and violence in California's public schools, heard descriptions of programs that have nothing in common with the high-security police approach now in fashion.

"I have not seen a shred of evidence that indicates that police on campus are going to solve or even reduce school violence," said Ken Nochimson, director of the Student Involvement Project for the Citizens Policy Center of Santa Barbara.

He said the Los Angeles Unified School District won't get at the roots of the problem with its $3.5 million security budget and police force of more than 200.

"Violence and vandalism result from students who are turned off by their school," Nochimson said.

To turn them on, the project seeks out the natural leaders at each school — not necessarily the student government, but the youngsters who are listened to — and recruits them for a Concerned Student Organization.

Under the direction of a coordinator from the project, those groups have been formed to promote student involvement in decision-making at seven junior and senior high schools across the state. Nochimson said vandalism has declined at each school.

The group isn't supposed to be a substitute police force but rather a "truth squad" that goes from class to class, giving an accurate version of incidents when rumors fly around a school and tensions run high.

Another task, after some experience in the program, has been to help screen candidates for teaching and, in one Oakland junior high school, even a principal.

"A committee of six students and three parents interviewed every (teacher) candidate, and their evaluation carried the same weight as my evaluation," said David Reiss, former principal at Duarte High School east of Los Angeles, and now a consultant to the project.

"I never went against their recommendations," he said, adding that the teachers didn't seem to object.

Crippled children's program set

Evelyn Tregoning, executive director of the Crippled Children's Service, will be guest speaker at the Dec. 2 meeting of the Valley's Cerebral Palsy Association, to be held at 7 p.m. in the home of Jackie Mitchell, 446 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.

The meeting, which is sponsored by the United Cerebral Palsy Association, will give local parents an opportunity to find out about the concerns and activities of the Crippled Children's Service. Parents who may have questions about the organization, or anyone who may be interested in the group, are invited to attend.

For more information, contact Jackie Mitchell, 846-4914.

Volunteers program

Cecelia Baker, center, librarian at Country Club School in San Ramon, library assistant Laura Pulver, and music instructor Jerald Cerri organize their presentations for the initial volunteers orientation at the school, slated Wednesday, Nov. 30 from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The program will be on multi-culture, what it is and how it is implemented in the classroom. Roberta Gleason, librarian at John Baldwin in the San Ramon district, Ms. Baker and Ms. Pulver will lead the discussion. Cerri will give a classroom music lesson and Howard Nemir will discuss Early Childhood Education. The orientation is being organized by Carol Moody, volunteers coordinator at the school.

The rancher

Last week was a busy one for farmers on tractors. More than 200 crowded downtown Fresno streets Monday to protest U.S. Interior Department hearings on the 160 acre limit for agricultural lands.

An estimated 10,000 rumbled into Plains, Ga. on Friday to lobby that town's most famous son for guaranteed farm profits.

The common bond in both protests was the little farmers organizing, seeking the same clout and governmental security that's usually the province of giants in agribusiness.

But against the din of mass demonstration came the defiant voice of one who still goes his own way. Livermore rancher E.J. Mulqueeney told an Associated Press reporter of his problems as a cattle rancher in a time of drought.

A once proud herd of 1,500 head has dwindled to 250, said Mulqueeney. His debts are near the $200,000 mark.

But there was no resignation in his voice, nor a cry to herd cattle through Sacramento seeking drought relief.

The 64-year old rancher, who was "born into the business," simply said he'll bounce back from the hard times. "This is going to be serious as hell, if we have another dry year," said Mulqueeny; "but I've been through some rough ones in the 30's."

Though his colleagues now mobilize to demonstrate their plight, one expects E.J. Mulqueeney to survive just as he did 40 years ago, with a hitch of the belt and teeth clenched tight.

Cheese Factory

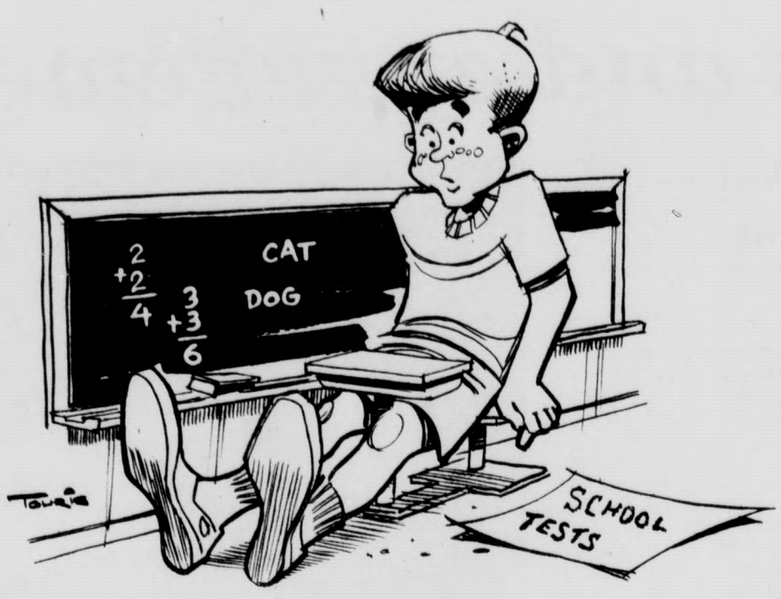
Believe it or not, there are actually some things around here more important than sewers, or even The Sewer Problem.

Local, tax - producing industry is one such priority item that comes to mind. And right now, the Cheese Factory in Pleasanton is an industry that must come to public attention ... for the challenge it presents all of us.

Sure, the Main Street cheese dispenser is a privately - owned business, and sure, those owners should have to take care of their waste discharge just the like the rest of us do. But that's just the point; the rest of us don't ... don't meet all those state and federal and regional standards for waste treatment and discharge.

It's sort of a community - wide problem. The standards imposed on each of us — home owner and industrialist — are particularly tough.

We will find an answer to the sewer puzzle some day, through an outfall line to the ocean or whatever. In the meantime we must learn to survive, as a community, with commerce and industry and a firm tax base. Pleasanton should keep that in mind, as City Hall takes on the Cheese Factory.



The week in retrospect

Those school tests

Are those test results from the California Assessment Program as good or "encouraging" as parents of Valley school children have been led to believe?

There is a minority opinion rift in this Valley that if one took all the results of, say, the Livermore, Pleasanton and Murray districts and compared them with similar districts in another major state, we'd come out looking something less than average.

Some persons concerned with or in the education field locally believe Valley student test scores "look good" when compared with other similar districts in this state, but would suffer when held aside national norms.

Generally, there is some credence to believe public education in this state is generating a "product" that has difficulty reading (and comprehending), writing and adding up a column of figures.

As an education writer, we would be quite interested in seeing current data on student testing from the suburban and metropolitan areas of other large states.

The obvious drawback to any comparisons rests not only in different test materials but socioeconomic factors and testing lead-up.

To merely say, for example, that California second graders improved or declined by two or three percentage points on reading tests— and then to conclude our youngsters are behind kids in another state whose collective percentile mark went up sharply is fallacious reasoning.

Until valid, fullproof nationwide criteria is established, parents and educators will have to be content with intra-state comparisons — if they're in the mood to compare.

It is pretty hard to argue with the results of the California Assessment Program in at least one Valley district— San Ramon.

Scores of second, third, sixth and twelfth graders of 1976-77 were once again near the top in reading (all grades), written expression, spelling and mathematics (the latter three tests taken by 6th and 12th graders).

In Livermore, the percentile ranking of the district mean score showed 12th graders of last year to have performed extremely well. But, if you put great emphasis on the test results, then you'd have to be concerned about third grade reading scores of 1976-77 and the written expression and spelling percentile rankings of sixth graders.

Both of the latter dropped substantially from test results of 1975-76, as well as being below the comparison band.

This comparison band is the range students of a given district are expected to fall in. The band is derived from socioeconomic factors. They could differ substantially, for example, between districts such as San Ramon and Pittsburg.

Pleasanton second and third graders tested in reading were at or above the comparison band. Sixth graders achieved percentile rankings of 84 and 81 on reading and written expression tests but went right through the floor on spelling and mathematics, falling five to eight points below the bottom of the comparison band.

Another flaw in comparing rests in the number of students tested.

For example, a small class can test-out very high or very low depending on just a handful of students.

This is borne out in Sunol where the percentile ranks on three of the sixth grade tests plummeted between 19 and 33 points. Yet second and third grade readers improved to the 99th and 98 percentiles, placing them at the highest echelon amongst all second and third graders in the state.

Our conclusion is that emphasis cannot be put on the test results, other than to "tell" a district generally where they are at a particular grade level.

Faulty wiring

The much-criticized Consumer Products Safety Commission has yet to accomplish much. Except possibly for its ban on an alleged cancer-causing fire retardant chemical used in children's sleepware, the four-year-old agency has given the impression of making a great deal of noise over rather trivial concerns — matchbook designs or swimming pool slide safety standards, for example.

Now, however, the CPSC is involved in a real life-and-death issue in the form of a suit it has filed in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., against 26 manufacturers of house wiring.

The commission claims that more than 1.5 million homes in this country are in imminent danger of catching fire because they are wired with "old technology" aluminum wiring. The homes were built between 1965 and 1975 when builders began turning to aluminum because of a shortage of copper.

Reports soon began coming in of dangerous overheating at connection points in aluminum-wired houses due to a metallic incompatability between aluminum and the steel screws, boxes, switches and such which had always been used with copper. Worse, houses began burning down and the CPSC cites at least two fatalities in its suit. Numerous localities have banned aluminum wiring.

(Since 1975, new hardware designed for use with aluminum wiring has apparently eliminated the problem.)

What the commission seeks in its suit is for the court to require the manufactures to undertake a public relations campaign to alert homeowners to the danger and either to repair the "old technology" wiring or replace it.

This, of course, would involve a lot of money, which is one reason why the manufacturers have been fighting the CPSC. They also charged that the commission has made inaccurate and misleading statements about aluminum wiring.

It will now be up to the court to decide whether and to what extent "old technology" aluminum wiring poses a danger to the public, and what should be done about it.

The decision will affect a lot more people, and businesses, than regulations governing swimming pool slides.

A rare feast

It's too bad some restauranteurs didn't book passage on the boat.

I refer to the Mayflower.

If there had been a Trader Vic aboard or one of similar bent, Thanksgiving cooking traditions might be a whole new ballgame.

Pilgrim ladies and their families would no doubt have beat it down to the local eatery instead of slaving over outdoor cooking pits, indoor wood stoves or whatever.

But since that wasn't the case, women have been jousting in the annual Turkey Tournament forever after.

Although a lot of women fling tradition to the winds and get their families to go out to eat, most succumb to homestyle turkey tasting.

For hours on end they stand amid pie dough, turkey giblets, sweet potatoes, cranberries, dressing and the like. China, crystal, silver and Sunday-best tablecloths are dragged out. Getting the latter array washed and shined is a job in itself.

The entire project from start to finish takes on aspects of a mini state dinner.

But since it's "the thing to do," frazzled nerves, feuding relatives, crying kids, barking dogs and tipsy uncles are ignored.

If Spanish Inquisitors had sentenced their prisoners to cooking a Thanksgiving dinner from scratch, no doubt victims would have knocked down the doors trying to confess before undergoing such torture.

However, there is a challenge involved in whomping up such a feast. Will the turkey be too dry? Should I cook the bird breast side up or down? Should I add wine? Does the dressing have too much sage, the pumpkin pie too much spice, etc.?

Tales of novice turkey-cookers leaving in the package of giblets reach your ears ... or ... losing the needle in the dressing after hemstitching the bird's backside to hold in stuffing.

I blew up the first one I ever cooked.

Not having a decent oven, I decided to put the little feller inside a pressure cooker.

When the lid was removed later — behold! — turkey soup.

Guests were kind and managed to scoop out a few bite-sized pieces.

During another episode, guests got a bit delirious when the words "Made In Japan" appeared on the turkey's breastbone during second servings.

The mystery was solved when two young boy guests began to snicker.

One of them finally admitted he had done the deed.

While the turkey was still hot he had deftly sliced away the meat next to the breastbone. After making his inscription with a pen, he plastered the meat back in place. Being hot, the meat adhered.

Getting rid of leftovers is another challenge. I mean you can eat just so many sliced turkey sandwiches.

Turkey stew, soup, casserole and sandwich spread also pales ere long.

Even dogs and cats seem to tire of the bountiful bird.

Some folks cram leftover gobbler goodies into the freezer. Two-bits says these nibbles get freezer-burn and are pitched waiting to disappear during a midnight snack.

But Thanksgiving dinner is a nice tradition. It's one of the few times families and friends can get together. That phenomenon in itself makes all the effort worthwhile.

Every year I vow to eat out. Every year I cook and enjoy doing it.

But if I ever have to pluck out all those feathers like my Pilgrim sisters did, I may call up Colonel Sanders and ask him to include Kentucky Fried Turkey in his act.

EARL WATERS

Sue me!

In a recent column it was reported that Assemblyman John Knox had undertaken a study of existing tort laws with a view to some revisions to perhaps unclog the courts. In this connection it was noted that there has been a rapid expansion of third party suits in recent years.

The reference was to the fact that more and more suits, claiming damage as the direct result of a second party's actions, have come to include third parties as possible contributors to the cause of action.

This is seen in automobile accident cases where the dealer who sold the car as well as the manufactruer are joined in an action against the actual driver of the vehicle on the theory a mechanical defect may be clained.

Since 1971, when the Supreme Court handed down a decision holding the seller responsible, it has become almost automatic to include a restaurant owner or barkeeper in accident suits where a driver had been drinking.

To point up the problem, and remove it from the emotional area involving cases relating to drunk driving, it was suggested that this same doctrine can be extended to many other situations. Among those cited as examples were cases connected with the sale of guns or pesticides.

This prompted some reader queries from alarmed dealers. One, a gun dealer, asks if that meant any sale could become involved in a suit against the dealer or only when a sale was made without strict observation of the laws and requirements coincident to such sale.

The question suggests that dealer should consult both his lawyer and insurance broker to learn exactly where he stands and what liability insurance he should carry.

In these times nobody is immune from being sued, especially the businessman.

Poison sold by farm suppliers is not sold to harm any person. Yet, failure to caution a buyer as to its proper use could result in a suit against that dealer if a person is subsequently harmed by the poison. That could be the user himself who thereafter claimed he wasn't warned.

When it comes to guns the case is even stronger for most guns are sold for only one ultimate purpose, that of shooting something animate. If it turns out to be a human some questions are going to be asked about the sale. Even where a gun is bought for protection it could be that a dealer would find himself in the middle of a lawsuit. If the gun failed to fire at the moment it was needed for that protection, and the user somehow survived the incident, you can bet a suit would be filed against both the dealer and the manufacturer.

The point is that too many people today seem unwilling to accept the responsibility for their own actions and seek to pass the blame along to a third party. Whether rightly or not, the courts have been accepting this in their rulings.

The selling of liquor is legal. And, while the law prohibits such sale to one "obviously intoxicated" there is no prohbition about serving one "under the influence". Yet, when such person is involved in a driving accident, the bar owner is held liable.

So, too, have host of private parties, where the law neither prohibits serving those under the influence or those obviously intoxicated, been held liable in recent decisions. By some strange reasoning the courts have made everyone their brother's keeper even though a host may have no way of knowing his guest is about to drive a car or couldn't prevent him doing so in anyway short of mayhem.

Whether Knox's studies result in any changes of law regarding third party suits or not, it is expected the data will be both informative and provocative.

"Wait a minute! How do I know this isn't just another close encounter of the third kind for you?"

round the town

I would like to say a few words on behalf of marriage.

God knows, there's been plenty written about "the alternative life styles" these last few days. I don't have any argument with them. Live and let live, as they say.But lately we get the impression that "living together" is the only way to go ... men with women, men with men, girls doing their own special thing. It's one way to go, I suppose. But not for me. And not, I suspect, for a whole lot of others.

Trouble is, we aren't being heard from much, these days. Us old - fashioned types. Husbands and wives. Children who still have a mother and a father, male and female, to call their own.

Seventeen percent of American children do not ... have both a mother and a father. Recent studies tell us that — because of death, divorce or "the single parent state" one child in six will know just one parent, usually the mother.

Is that right? You'd have to ask the fatherless - child, I suppose. But we never do. Surveys aren't taken of children, their preference, their alternative. They take what some enlightened adult hands them, right down to a Dad who will be known only as "A.I." — Artifically Inseminated.

Let's face it, marriage is never easy. Being a father, a mother is even tougher. Particularly in these liberated times. There's another survey ... "Most American parents say if they had to it to do over again, they would opt for no children, or one at the most."

I don't know who they surveyed. Not this father. Not the mother of my children. Not you either, I'll bet.

We're the "silent majority" ... the people who marry, still believe in the holy rite of matrimony, the sanctity of parenthood, the joys of a family. Sure, we know the grief, too. The drug thing is frightening. The thought of our kids just living around with other young adults is discouraging, almost as discouraging as the divorce rate among young marrieds.

It's a tough life. Growing up. Raising a family. Living with one other adult, and making it stick. But not half as tough as all those "alternative lifestyles" I'll bet .

They value their "personal freedom" ... that's the key phrase. Freedom to do what? To wander in and out of careers, through relationships, experiencing the whole scene, from drugs to dropouts. What a life!

They can have it. 'm looking forward to that other survey, the one due in about 20 years, when the statistical people tell us about the state of those 60 - year - olds who went it alone ... enjoying their freedom ... giving free reign to their bright youth.

But when the boldflush of youth is gone, then what? What good is the freedom that guarantees only you might live alone? Perhaps they will find it has been a fulfilling life for them. Perhaps it was all they could handle.

I can't answer for them. I can only speak as one husband and father of the old - fashioned variety. And I know I would never have the courage to face all that life offers, if I had to face it alone.

I thought a great eal about it, these past weeks, when those of alternative lifestyles were prominent in the news. It was a time when we, in our family, were confronting great tests, too. Illness, little more than must come to all households, in time. It seemed to come to us in one great flood, pent up through the good, untroubled years.

I don't want your sympathy or your tears. I would like to give you a share of our joy, the happiness that comes in being together, when everything else wants to fall apart.

To me, that's what marriage is really all about. I never knew that so well as in these last few days. I was never so firmly convinced of the lifestyle we had chosen together, than when it looked like there was no way either of us could stand alone.

Just the thoughts of one married man, one vote in favor of a man and a woman, in love, for life.

In a month when so many others have talked of so much else, I thought it might be nice to offer these few words, on behalf of marriage.

Berry's World

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR V. Y.: As long as you and your husband feel as you do, I strongly doubt that your daughter will suffer any psychological damage from this experience. She may feel a momentary sense of loss, or be saddened for a brief period, but the real traumatic, psychological damage cocurs when those around a young woman feel that she has committed a sin. In this case, she's apt to suffer a great sense of shame and guilt, but otherwise, she's more apt to fee only a deep sense of relief.

Studies of women who've had abortions reveal that when they're interviewed on a one-to-one basis, they generaly express positive views about their abortions. This is especially true of girls your daughter's age.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My 18-year-old daughter just found ot she is pregnant. She is gong to have an abortion. It is totally her decision. Painful as it is to her father and me, I can't honestly say that I think her decision is wrong. My husband and I believe a child should be properly educated. This takes money and we have very little. My daugher is much too young to accept the responsibility of a child and I can't because of my health. What worries me, however, is the damage, the psychological effecct that an abortion will have on my daugher. She's sensitive and I don't want her life to be ruined by this experience. It was a mistake, she knows that, but I don't want her to suffer from guilt the rest of her life.—V.Y.

Make certain that your daughter realizes, however, that sometimes young women"make mistakes" or ignore birth control information because they have doubts about themselves and are using pregnancy as a way of reassuring themselves of their own identify and feminity. If this is the case with your daughter, she should recognize it now, so that the error will not be repeated.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My 20-year-old son is always being hurt by some woman or other. I don't want to seem like a doting mother who spoils her son and always takes his side, but I think women don't have much feeling these days. Maybe he has just had back luck, but he seems to have romantic problems most of the time. We just about make ends meet, and I know he spends a lot of his money on these thankless women. What can I do to holp him so he doesn't get hurt any more?—A.S.

DEAR A.S.: Parents don't seem to have much luck trying to help their children overcome or avoid paid in love relationships. This is something each young person has to learn for himself and help or guidance from parents is often seen only as interference. Eventually, if you continue to give your son emotional support when he needs it, he'll probably learn to avoid women who are going to bruise him and be insensitive to him.

I don't think today's women are any less sensitive, but I do believe that they may be more independent and honest than they were in years past. Women have always been more in touch with their emotions than men, which can create difficulties. Men can misread signs of a woman's afffection. Your son might, for instance, think that a women who is merely warm and friendly is in love with him. It isn't necessarily the woman's fault. It's simply that your son hasn't learned to read emotional clues correctly.

Women tend to fall out of love more quickly than men, according to Dr. Zick Rubin of Brandeis Universitybecause they're more sensitive to problems in a relationship and set higher standards for quality.

Poor boys tend to fall in love more than wealthier men, perhaps to compensate for what is a less adquated postiion in society.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — You have said several times that food intake has no effect on or relation to arthritis. I have gout as well as osteoarthritis and osteoporosis, and know from 24 years of daily observation that foods high in purines, or only reasonably high in them, certainly cause me to ache, hurt, and feel quite miserable.

If I eat one artichoke, after 10 years of abstinence, that is O.K., but to eat a second one is ruinous. To eat some fresh crab is fine once, but again the next day or a big helping of clam chowder, and I am done for.

I would appreciate your comments.

DEAR READER — In the first place, you have taken my comments out of context. My remarks about diet have been made in relation to columns about osteorarthritis and possibly rheumatoid arthritis — the latter often requires increased protein intake because of the protein wasting effects of inflammation. The fact remains that these two common forms of arthritis are not cured by diet. I have repeatedly pointed out, though, that if you are overweight you will have less problems with osteorarthritis if you correct obesity and stay slim.

Gout may have a complication of a special form of arthritis. It is true that if you are not taking medicines to control the uric acid, that eating lots of purines may cause an attack. We used to have to treat gout by diet, but we now know that most of the uric acid that causes gout is not from the food you eat, but a by-product of your own cells. This is spin-off information from understanding DNA or the nucleic acids in cell nuclei.

One really useful approach has been to chemically block the cells of the body from forming excess amounts of uric acid. Other treatment methods include increasing the elimination of uric acid through the urine.

The dietary treatment of gout is not very good and wholly inadequate. A diet completely devoid of purines will usually now lower the blood uric acid level enough. Milk contains no purine, yet a person on a strict milk diet with no purines will still have a lot of uric acid if his cells are inclined to produce an excess amount.

If you find you do better by avoiding foods that cause attacks, by all means avoid them, but rely on your doctor to use modern methods to keep your uric acid level at normal levels if you want to avoid the complications of gouty arthritis later.

Now, about osteoporosis dissolving bones. That is often called arthritis by the public, but it is not arthritis at all — it is dissolving bones. I recommend taking plenty of calcium to help prevent this problem. Other than that dietary aid, there is little else you can gain from the diet.

A microscope is a strong magnifying instrument which makes things look many times larger than they actually are,

Many things that cannot be seen with the eyes alone can be seen clearly though a microscope. The simplest kind is an ordinary magnifying glass. It bends the light and spreads it to produce an image larger than the originial.

The kind of microscope used in most schools is a compound microscope. It has at least two sets of magnifying lenses, one above the other.

When you look through the microscope, you see an object that is magnified first by one lens and then again by the second lens.

An electron microscope uses beams of electrons to magnify objects too small to be seen by a regular microscope. It can magnify an incredible 20 million times!

North and South bid to six clubs in truly elegant fashion. At least they took four rounds of bidding to get there.

Not that the 29 high-card-point slam is what might be called a real lay down. Declarer starts with two apparent losers. The ace of hearts and the king of diamonds.

The ace of hearts was led right away. West continued hearts and South was in. He spread his hand in a flamboyant manner and announced. "If West had 11 high-card points for his vulnerable opening bid I will just run off the rest of the tricks."

It was a friendly all-expert game and West conceded the slam immediately.

The play was a squeeze. South would start with a couple of rounds of trumps to make sure he had pulled them. Then he would cash his king of spades and ace of diamonds, play the last heart and run the rest of the trumps.

North's last three cards would be ace-10 of spades and queen of diamonds. West's would be the queen-jack of spades and king of diamonds. The last trump would squeeze poor West.

Carnell, MSJ claw Panthers

PLEASANT HILL — Besides having a stintless knowledge of carrying footballs under his arm, Mike Carnell is a practical mathematician.

The Mission San Jose High halfback knows the shortest distance between two points is a straight line. He proved the theory in Friday night's North Coast Section 4-A football championship at Diablo Valley College here.

After Antioch jumped to a surprisingly early 6-0 lead, Carnell took the ensuing kickoff straight up the middle, without hesitation, and waltzed through a red - carpeted hole enroute to a 95 - yard touchdown return to start a 35-26 MSJ win over the Panthers.

Theweather, surprisingly, was good. More surprisingly, the Panthers outgained the Warriors by a deceiving margin in a game that was as good as over after the first half.

Carnell, in addition to his kickoff return, ran for threetouchdowns on the evening and spliced the Antioch defense for 132 yards on 30 carries.

The major - college prospect was mildly satisfied with his performance, having a lot of other things on his mind.

"The first half of the season is over now," he said, "and the second half is harder." Carnell is well aware thatpicking a college can be just as brain - wracking as figuring out a stunting linebacker.

"I'm not thinking about a college yet," he said, "at least not until after this weekend. I just want to go home and relax."

Carnell was well aware of Antioch's taunted defense, and thought the Panthers played up to their expectations and then some.

"The coach told us they were a second - half team," he reflected when the Warriors took a 28-6 lead at the half. "In the first half, they looked pretty normal, but in the second half, they really came around."

Now that the season is over, the back who has seen himself mentioned in nearly every California paper and an issue of Sports Illustrated has a lot of catching up to do.

"I've got a lot of clippings to read," he explained, "because during the season I didn't want to get big - headed. I'm gonna go home now and read them."

Antioch, knowing that the best defense againt MSJ is an offense, ran their first drive like clockwork in moving 54 yards in 7 plays. Tony Lang, who gained 106 yards for the Panthers and duplicated Carnell's four - TD effort with four sweeping scores of his own, notched his first one with 9:04 remaining in the first quarter on a 20 yard - run. The two - point PAT try was miffed.

After Carnell's kickoff return, Antioch strangely shunned their highly - successful running attack with a rare pass on their next possession. It was good for a negative eight yards on a well - covered screen pass, forcing a punt from their own territory.

Mission took over on their own 28 and drove 73 yards in nine plays for their second score, coming on a one - yard plunge by Carnell.

MSJ kicker Dallen Loder missed one of his two PAT's, and MSJ took a 13-6 lead into the second quarter.

Starting from their own 45l The Warriors stayed on the ground with Carnell and Wade Bradford (54 yards, 16 carries) to drive for a third score on Carnell's 11 - yard jaunt.

Loder's kick made it 20-6.

With 1:34 remaining in the half, the Warriors got all the points they would need on the night on a two - yard run up the middle by Carnell, capping a four - TD one - half effort and 26-6 lead. MSJ converted for two points to take a 28-6 lead.

The Panthers, behind Lang's brilliant TD sweeps of 30, 22 and five yards, made the final score closer than the flow of the game.

However, Jeff Lattendresse's 59 - yard pass — his only completion of the night — to Gil Santoya over the middle of a burned Antioch defense for a score early in the fourth quarter gave the Warriors a 35-14 lead and the game in hand.

Antioch's final score, a five - yard run by Lang, occured with just six seconds left in the game.

The Panthers, despite being on the bottom end of the momentum all night, outgained MSJ by 50 yards, 298-245.

Times SPORTS

Dave Weber, Editor

SANTA ROSA — Laney College, which tied for the Golden Gate Conference football championship rolling up lopsided victories, went down to defeat in the Bay Bowl the same way, as host Santa Rosa rolled to a 46-19 victory here Friday night. The Eagles, who had rolled up 2,194 yards on the ground during the regular season, were held to a mere 49 by a rugged Santa Rosa defense.

Laney's ace running back Ray Crouse, who had 1,098 yards rushing entering the game, was held to 91, 80 of them coming in the second half. The Bear Cubs' defense managed to totally control Crouse's end sweeps and the Laney swing passes in the first half as Santa Rosa built up a 23-0 advantage.

After a scoreless first period, the Bear Cubs struck paydirt on the second play of the second quarter. On a fourth and two from the Laney 32 Bob Batton took a handoff from quarterback Harley Miller and swept around left end for the score, leaving two Laney defenders lunging at his feet. On the conversion attempt Miller faked a kick beautifully and passed to Homer Jones for the two points.

That seemed to set the tone for the contest.

Five minutes later Miller ended a 40-yard, seven-play drive with a six-yard toss to wide receiver Gary Snell, coming out of the backfield. Miller, a former prep star at Campolindo High School in Moraga, then tossed another two-Point conversion, this one going to Jed Gabson.

Jones, who ran for 63 yards in 12 carries on the night, tallied the third Santa Rosa touchdown on an eight-yard pass from Miller with 6:09 left in the quarter.

A bad snap on a Laney punt and an ensuming fumble recovery set the Bear Cubs up at the Eagle 20.

From there Santa Rosa scored in four plays. Miller ran for six yards and Batton added six on two thrusts before Jones caught the touchdown pass.

The Eagles and Crause in particualar. came out in the third quarter bent on closing the gap.

After holding the Bear Cubs Laney took the ball at its 25. Quarterback Andrei Wallace was dropped for an eight-yard loss but Crouse then showed off his talents, rambling for 36 yards down the sidelines, giving Laney a first down at the Santa Rosa 47. Wallace then found end Vern May for nine yards.

After that Crouse took over. He bursted 25 yards through the middle to the 14. And carrying the ball five straight plays, rammed the ball over the goal line from two yards out for the first Eagle score.

However, the Bear Cubs came right back when Miller hit Snell on a perfect 72-yard pass for the fourth SR score two minutes later. After Batton had gained three yards in two rushing attempts from the 25 Miller faded back and found the speedy Snell on the sidelines and the 6-foot, 175 pounder took it in for the score.

The fourth quarter was merely an extension of the first half.

After Laney's Olin Davis blocked a punt and returned it 54 yards for a touchdown the rugged Bear Cub defense pushed Laney back to its goal line.

On the three-yard line Wallace faded back to pass from the end zone and threw it incomplete. However, Laney was called for holding and the hosts got a safety out of it.

The Eagles put their last points on the scoreboard on a well-executed pass from May to Keith Williams that went for 37 yards. Wallace faded back to pass and tossed the ball out to May who dropped back and threw to the wide-open Williams who danced into the end zone.

But the Bear Cubs turned to their ground game and built up the score.

Ed Ugarte dashed 32 yards for one touchdown with 5:14 left and reserve back Bob McIntosh added the final score with just 47 seconds left on a one-yard plunge.

Santa Rosa rolled up 385 yards total offense to 231 for the losers.

The Bear Cubs had 210 on the ground and got 176 through the air from Miller. The freshman completed 14 of 23 passes for three touchdowns and one interception. He also passed for two two-point conversions.

Despite his brillant effort, however, Miller gave the credit to other people.

"We've got a great offensive line," he said. "They were opening up all kinds of holes and gave me plenty of protection.

"Our backs also ran well," he went on. "It was a real team effort."

In an early-season non-league contest the Bear Cubs fell to San Mateo, 31-19. Laney later beat t San Mateo by one point in GGC action.

What was the reason for the Bear Cubs' rapid improvement?

"Well, in the first three or four games of the season our team was slow in getting started," Miller commented. "We had a lot of freshmen on the squad and it took us some time to get to know each other."

"We'll, the Santa Rosa Players know each other know and no one knows it better thatn Laney's football team.

Alhambra let SLZ slip by in 2-A title

SAN LEANDRO — Though unnoticed, Alhambra High's turning point came after refusing a penalty Friday night.

The Bulldogs led 7-6 in the last 6:10 of the North Coast Section 2A championship when the San Lorenzo Rebels' offensive unit was called for an illegal shift.

Alhambra coach Bob Heaston signalled to defensive captain Ken Fahr to decline the penalty.

He never should have done it.

The next fourth - and - one play saw Rebel halfback Andre Bynum ramble for a key first down that eventually led to a 14-7 victory over the visiting Bulldogs at Pacific High's Burrell Field in San Leandro.

Heaston called the move a "calculated risk."

"We had had three chances to score, and we wanted to get the ball back," said Heaston. "It was one of those shots where if we stopped them — it was a calculated risk. On our three chances, we were just inches away."

That was definitely true on this Friday night, especially after both teams had knocked each other around vigorously in the first quarter.

Alhambra took its first crack at ringing Rebel helmets on the opening kickoff, marching 65 yards in 13 plays and devouring almost half of the first quarter before quarterback Rick Seib found tight end Scott Cunning on fourth - and - three for a 13-yard scoring pass that put the Bulldogs ahead 7-0.

But San Lorenzo came right back to close at 7-6, as Benji Moldenado's 40-yard kickoff return and Ted Riche's 12-yard pass on fourth - and - seven fake punt situation keyed a 40-yard scoring drive, ending with Bynum scoring the first of his two touchdowns, this from four yards out. Only Riche's wide point-after try kept the Bulldogs on top, 7-6.

Both sides had blown numerous chances to score, what with back - to - back interceptions by Alhambra's Greg McNamer and San Lorenzo's Don Chelucci giving each other a fair crack, although Marcus Wright just barely missed two chances and Steve Walsh a third.

The Bulldogs made a serious threat before the half when Steve Contreras had a Petros pass thrown right into his numbers, which he returned 28 yards to the Rebel 18.

But San Lorenzo put on a decisive goalline stand that ended when Seib was stopped on the one-hair line on a fourth-down quarterback sneak. The Rebels took over on downs.

Alhambra looked ready to explode in their initial second-half possession what with Seib unloading a 37-yard pass to Brian Cisterman that only safety Randy Morales stopped from being a 64-yard bomb, dropping Cisterman at the Rebel 27.

49ers face healthier Saints

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New Orleans Saints, whose offense appears healthy, meet a San Francisco 49ers team still relying mostly on defensive strength in a rematch Sunday for the two teams who played just two weeks ago.

New Orleans, 3-7, is coming off a 21-20 upset over the Atlanta Falcons, whose defense had allowed no more than 14 points in any previous game.

"It sure felt good to be able to run and block against them," said running back Chuck Muncie who rushed for 92 yards against one of the National Football League's finest defenses.

The 49ers, 4-6, limited the Los Angeles Rams to 10 first downs and 223 yards on offense but lost 23-10 last Sunday. Their four-game winning streak and playoff dreams died, mostly because of a key blocked punt and the San Francisco offense's inability to score after gaining a first down at the Rams' oneyard line. "We're just not scoring points. It's frustrating," said quarterback Jim Plunkett, who suffered bruised ribs late in the game but should start Sunday.

Plunkett hasn't thrown a touchdown pass in four weeks and has only four this season, while the rushing attack led by Delvin Williams (657 yards) has accounted for 10. The defense ranks third in the National Conference.

Saints quarterback Archie Manning was still recovering from an ankle injury when the 49ers won 10-7 in overtime two weeks ago at New Orleans. He came back against Atlanta and completed 10 of 18 passes for 82 yards and two touchdowns.

Muncie, the former University of California All-American, has 635 yards rushing so far and is a good bet to break the team single-season record of 761 set by Andy Livingston in 1969. In his first crack at the 49ers this year, however, the running back who has been AWOL from many practices was held to 20 yards on 17 attempts.

The New Orleans' defense includes two rookie starters in the line, Joe Campbell and Mike Fultz, and ranks dead last in the NFC statistically, having yielded 341 yards per game.

Raiders against the wall

OAKLAND — Late last season, the Oakland Raiders went into a Monday night game and showed up sceptics who were saying they weren't too concerned about winning it.

There's no such talk now, as the defending National Football League champions stand second to Denver in the AFC West and need every victory they can get to assure themselves of making the playoffs.

The Raiders are expected to win Monday night, with or without quarterback Ken Stabler, as they face a Buffalo Bills team which lost O.J. Simpson four weeks ago and has a 2-8 record. Their next two games are against probable playoff teams, Los Angeles and Minnesota.

Stabler suffered a knee injury early in last Sunday's game against San Diego, which the Raiders lost 12-7 to make their record 8-2. As much as they might like to rest him against the Bills, he'll be in uniform and ready unless doctors order him to skip the game.

"If he's okay and can play, then he'll play," Coach John Madden said at midweek as Stabler underwent treatment. "There's no in between."

Last season, the Raiders had already clinched a division title when they faced the Cincinnati Bengals in a Monday night game. The Pittsburgh Steelers, then reigning NFL champs, were behind Cincinnati in the AFC Central, needed help from the Raiders and let it be known they didn't expect a major effort from Madden's club.

The Raiders beat the Bengals 35-20 in one of their best performances of the season. The Steelers made the playoffs and lost here 24-7 in the AFC title game.

Mike Rae is Oakland's No. 2 quarterback, and he completed just one of six passes for 16 yards last Sunday. The Oakland running attack was limited to 112 yards, including 37 by Mark van Eeghen who is the AFC's second leading rusher with 868.

Simpson, who totaled 557 yards before being injured, was succeeded by Roland Hooks whose 155 - yard day helped the Bills upset New England three weeks ago. Hooks has averaged 4.5 yards per carry.

Bills quarterback Joe Ferguson, who set an NFL record last season by allowing just one interception, has been intercepted 17 times this year, contributing to his lowly ranking, No. 17, among AFC passers.

USF Reaches Soccer Finals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of San Francisco Dons earned a shot at a third consecutive NCAA soccer title Saturday, building a lead on first half goals by Alex Nwosu and Tony Igwe and beating UCLA 4-1 in the West Regional final game.

UCLA made it 2-1 early in the second half on Tim Ngubeni's goal, but the Dons' Dag Olavsen scored four minutes later and teammate John Anton added a goal later in the game.

USF will defend the national title, which it has won the past two years, in nearby Berkeley at the University of California's Memorial Stadium next weekend. It takes a 19-game winning streak and a 24-3-1 season record into the four-team national finals.

UCLA finished 19-5-3.

USC still smells roses after win

LOS ANGELES — Southern California won its version of the Rose Bowl Friday night.

"This was pretty much our Rose Bowl," said USC quarterback Rob Hertel, who guided the Trojans into position for a 38-yard field goal by Frank Jordan with just two seconds to play, giving them a 29-27 triumph over rival UCLA.

"This is the biggest thrill of my life," said Hertel, who completed 15 of 24 passes for 254 yards and three touchdowns, setting two school records.

The 6-2, 185-pound senior has thrown for 16 touchdowns and passed for 1,899 yards to establish USC season standards. He also was intercepted twice by UCLA, for another school mark of 18 interceptions.

"I was very confident on that last drive," said Hertel, who moved the Trojans from their own 27 yard line to the UCLA 20 in the final three minutes. "This was the best game I've ever played."

By winning, USC earned a berth in the Astro - Bluebonnet Bowl against Texas A&M on New Year's Eve. Washington will represent the Pacific Eight Conference in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, playing Michigan Jan. 2.

UCLA's season is over.

"Playing in the Astro - Bluebonnet Bowl is an added bonus for us," said Hertel, "There's been a lot of things said about us this year but we really stuck together when it counted tonight."

USC finished the regular season with 7-4 record. Had they lost, the Trojans would have experienced their worst season since 1961.

"First of all, you've got to give USC the credit," said disappointed UCLA Coach Terry Donahue. "They came back with very little time remaining. They drove and scored. They did just a tremendous job. And it's a tribute to their coaches and players.

"It was just a classic UCLA - USC game." added Donahue, "This is not the most frustrating loss to me because of the way our players fought back. They played as hard as they could. I'm proud but disappointed."

Sophomore quarterback Rick Bashore, playing his first game since suffering a broken rib and collapsed lung Nov. 5, directed the Bruins from a 26-10 deficit late in the third quarter to a one - point lead near the end. But it wasn't enough.

"I'm sore but I'm okay," said Bashore, "All I can say is we played our hearts out."

Jordan, a 5-9, 180-pound junior from San Francisco, said he wasn't nervous as he ran onto the field with time running out.

"I had plenty of time to prepare for the kick. I knew that if UCLA scored it would come down to a field goal.

"I wasn't nervous. It happened so fast I didn't have time to be nervous," Jordan said.

Jordan, who booted three field goals in the game, missed his only two conversion attempts after touchdowns. They were his first failures in that department this year, after 23 without a miss.

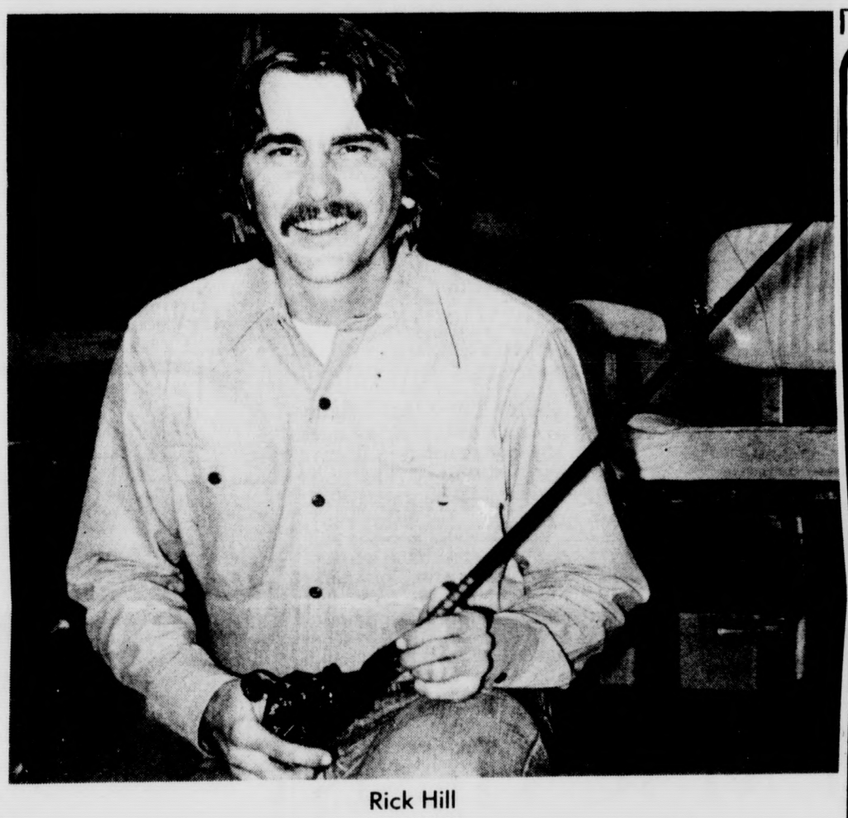
There's a lot more to bass fishing



Rick Hill

DUBLIN — There's more to bass fishing than plopping hook, line and sinker into water and waiting for a nibble.

But learning the art is a challenge open to anyone young or old, according to Rick Hill of Dublin.

He added he had been enjoying fishing, particularly for bass, since age 11. He is 28. Last year he joined the Castro Valley Bass Classics which is one of many East Bay bass fishing clubs.

Studying habits and instincts of bass are two things fishermen are advised to do.

Hill said, like humans, two of their basic instincts are self-preservation and the urge to seek food.

The first instinct causes bass to hide near "structured surfaces" underwater for protection. A structured surface can be a mound, rock, submerged brush, logs, etc.

They stay fairly close to shoreline, Hill reported. They also tend to stay away from strong sunlight due to their eye structure. Bass have no eyelids. As a result, their eyes are extremely sensitive to light.

When hungry, their predatory characteristics combined with acute senses of hearing and smell make bass charge after anything moving in the water.

"They can swim 10 to 11 miles per hour in short bursts," Hill explained.

Since bass prefer a moving target, fishermen can catch them using anything from a string and hook with live bait to casting tackle with artificial lures.

Fishing club rules don't allow live bait or trolling, Hill said. But most pros prefer using casting tackle with artificial lures anyway.

"Some fishermen are good enough to make short casts every four seconds all day long."

Presentation of the lure is very important in bass fishing.

"You try to make bait hit water with the least amount of commotion and noise."

Alternating retrieving speed of the lure plus color, size and type of lure can also affect how many fish you catch.

"A bass can detect 20 colors. Sometimes they'll strike at a blue lure and not go near a yellow one or vice versa."

Bass are fresh water fish and are good to eat. There are 11 species.

There are four species most club fishermen go after, Hill said. They are large and small mouth, spotted (also called Kentucky) and Florida. The latter is a different strain of large mouth.

The first two can be found in California. Their weight averages between seven to ten pounds.

Bass are originally from the Great Lakes. Now, there are one or more species in every mainland state except Alaska.

The world's record for large mouth bass is 22 pounds 4 ounces. That record was set in 1932.

The California state record is 20 pounds 15 ounces. The fish was a Florida strain of large mouth caught in 1974.

Specially designed boats aid bass fishermen. These shallow draft boats can go up to 60 miles per hour when properly outfitted.

Bass fishing tournaments in this area are held in lakes within a 150 mile radius.

Anyone wishing to learn more about bass fishing can attend seminars conducted by the American Institute of Bass Fishing (AIBF). During California's annual AIBF seminar, 200 to 400 people participate.

Cowboys corral 7 EBAL picks

San Ramon High School may have won the East Bay Athletic League championship but it was third place Livermore that dominated the All-EBAL All-Star football team selected recently.

The 'Pokes, who finished third in the EBAL race with a 4-2-1 record, had seven players selected to the first team offensive and defensive units.

San Ramon had five first team players and Monte Vista and Foothill each landed four. Granada and Dublin each had two players selected and Amador Valley one. California didn't have a player named to the first or second team units.

Tackle Greg Tennyson, guard Daryl Hansen, tight end Bob Bolen and fullback Pete Martinez were the 'Poke players named to the offensive unit. Livermore players on the defensive team included lineman Ron Rodriques, linebacker Kevin Fitzpatrick and defensive back John Farfan.

SR's choices included quarterback Guy Houston, offensive tackle John Erickson and Mike Campbell, who made the team as a wide receiver and defensive back. Defensive end Jeff Bruno was the other Wolf player to made the first team.

Center Mike Cockerton, defensive end Dave Fronhen, linebacker Mike Florenza and offensive guard Ron Piombo were the Monte Vista player picked.

Running back Jon Batchelor, the only first-team player to repeat, and wide receiver Dan Pearson were the Dublin players selected. Pearson was one of the leading receivers in the East Bay Area.

Greg Costello made the first team as a running back for the improved Foothill squad. Other Falcons selected were lineman Eric Moran, defensive back Monty Winn and punter-kicker Sam Sisneroz.

Granada's first-team picks were Steve Robison, a defensive back who also played quarterback and running back this season, and linebacker Kevin Gosney.

Amador Valley's only first-team pick was defensive lineman Glen Hill. However the Dons had three players named to the second team. They were fullback-linebacker Mike Hoff, guard Scott Russell and defensive end Tom Lopicollo.

Ironically, Mike Nalty of Granada, a two-way first team pick at defensive lineman and center last season, was not picked for the first or second teams.

Army upsets Navy, 17-14

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Leamon Hall and Greg King each cracked one yard for touchdowns and Mike Castelli kicked a 21-yard field goal in the first half Saturday as Army held on to beat Navy, 17-14, for the first time in five years.

A pair of pass interceptions by linebacker John Hillard set up Army's 10-0 lead in the 78th renewal of this service football classic, and helped the Cadets wrap up their first winning season since 1972.

Navy coach George Welsh, who lost his first game to Army after four straight triumphs, disdained an attempt for a game-tying field goal and had Joe Gattuso throw the futile final halfback pass.

Navy narrowed the gap to 10-7 in the second quarter on an 18-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Bob Leszczynski to wingback John Kurowski.

But the Middies trailed 17-7 at halftime after King's scoring dive with 1:09 left. In the third period, the Middies moved 29 yards for a touchdown after a 26-yard punt return by Mike Gelpin. The drive took seven plays, with Gattuso, who scored three TDs in last year's Navy victory, going over from the two.

The Middies twice threatened to pull the game out in the second half, once late in the third period when the reached the Army 23 only to have Leszczynski fumble tghe ball away on an option play, and again with 1:07 left in the game when Gattuso's halfback pass from the Army nine fell incomplete in the end zone on a fourth-down play.

The Cadets took over and ran out the clock as the corps stormed onto the field to celebrate a victory over Navy for the first time since 1972.

Late pass leads Chargers

Dennis Campbedd caught a nine-yard pass from tailback Vince Logsdon in the fourth quarter to top the Charger 8-0 and win the American Conference championship in the Pleasanton Junior Football League recently.

Marty McGarry ran for the two-point conversion.

Strong defensive play highlighted the contest. The Chargers kept the victors bottled up in their half of the field most of the first half, driving to the Raider three, 17 and 20 yard lines.

Middle linebacker Bill Schott made a hard tackle on a pass completion which caused a fumble recovery by Mike Riffee. The Chargers also drove 55 yards in the second quarter only to be stopped again by the Raiders.

Logsdon led the winners with 115 yards rushing and quarterback Graig Wilson did a fine job. Bill Schott and Robert Bird caught passes in the touchdown drive for the winners.

Riffee insured the victory with a pass interception in the wanning minutes of the game.

It was the seventh shutout in eight games for the champions. Chris Pompilio, David Jansen and Chris Vinson did a fine job blocking on offense.

The high-powered Raider offense averaged 23 points per game during the season. Logsdon led the offensive attack with almost 900 yards rushing for the year.

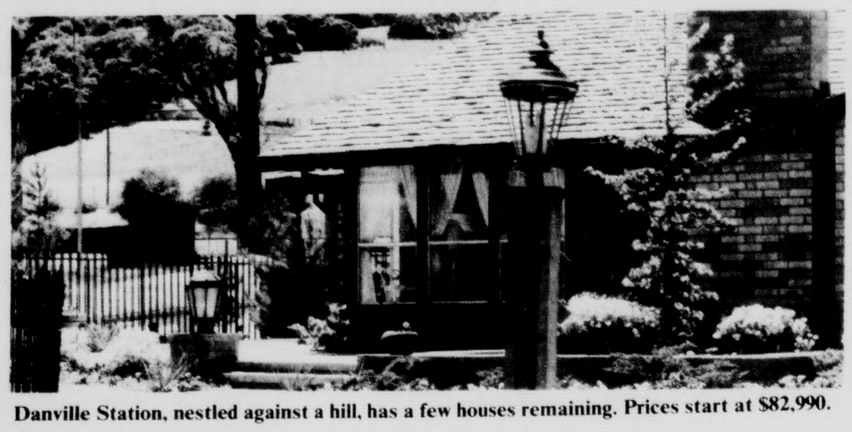
Patio pleasure at Seabridge for winter



Danville Station, nestled against a hill, has a few houses remaining. Prices start at $82,990.

The advent of winter need not put a stop to patio enjoyment for those who have chosen to make their home at Seabridge in Redwood Shores, according to Kile Morgan, Jr., director of marketing for Broadmoor Homes, Inc. builder of the development.

At this new water-oriented community of 97 townhomes, residents can have the warmth of the indoors and still retain the plpasure of the patio and deck area by means of a built-in view. Second floor decks for the enjoyment of outdoors are complemented by first floor patios — each with sliding glass doors which provide views of either water and/or the community.

Seabridge offers three distinct floor plans, each designed with generous expansions of glass. Priced from $94,000 to $125,000, the two-story homes with two and three bedrooms range in size from 1,583 to 1,956 square feet.

Aside from outdoor living features and pleasant views, Seabridge homes offer many additional attributes. Among these are soaring - beamed ceilings, wood-burning fireplaces with custom masonry hearths, step-down living rooms, separate dining rooms and skylights placed in stairwells or bathrooms.

In the kitchens are General Electric appliances, luminous ceilings, hardwood cabinets, ceramic tile counter tops, pantries and breakfast nooks or eating bars.

Included among the master suite appointments are vaulted ceilings and sliding glass doors, mirrored wardrobe doors, TV and telephone outlets and generous wardrobes.

Baths offer cultured marble vanities, soffited vanity lighting, full-height ceramic tile around tubs and showers, full-width plate glass mirrors and over-sized oval tubs with glass enclosure in master suite baths.

Residents at Seabridge will enjoy community recreation amenities which include a private tennis court, heated swimming pool, hydrospa, and professionally landscaped common greenbelt areas.

"An added plus for Seabridge residents is the easy commute to San Francisco, the east bay and San Jose," Morgan pointed out.

The master-planned community of Redwood Shores offers many additional amentities. Over one third of the community will be interlaced with waterways and parks. Swimming, sailing, bicycling, shopping and dining will all be part of the Redwood Shores living experience.

Seabridge may be reached by taking the Bayshore Freeway to the Ralston Avenue/ Marine World Parkway exit east. Follow the signs to the Seabridge sales office at Redwood Shores.

Outdoor patios with sliding glass doors that provide either water or community views are offered at Seabridge in Redwood Shores. The townhomes start at $94,000.

No permit for a new realty office

LIVERMORE — Council members refused to go along with the recommendation of the planning commission for a conditional use permit for a real estate office within a neighborhood shopping center.

Councilman John Staley pulled the item from the consent calendar and Councilman Dale Turner agreed at first. However, after hearing Ray Siebert of Statewide Realty discuss his situation, Turner voted for the permit.

Siebert wanted to put a small real estate office in the shopping center at 850 Hillcrest Ave., which is zoned CN and does not allow real estate offices.

However, there are two real estate offices in shopping centers in the city, one in that same center. Both were in existance before the zoning went into effect in 1967.

He pleaded his case that it is hard to find a place for a small real estate office that is reasonable. "I don't want to be one of many in the business district of Sunset Towers," he added.

Just a few Danville homes left

A scant handful of homes are all that remain for sale at Danville Station and Danville Place in panville, according to the builder, Kaufman & Broad.

Both communities are being built between Mount Diablo State Park and the Las Trampas Ridge Wilderness Area.

Complete three and four bedroom single family homes, ranging in size from 1,805 to 2,190 square feet, are priced from $82,990.

"Both Danville Station and Danville Place represent some of the finest work we have done in any market. Homes are large and are designed for easy country living, long a hallmark of people who have chosen Danville," observed John E. Polk, president of Kaufman & Broad in Northern California.

"We are about ten minutes from BART's Walnut Creek Station, which is about 35 air - conditioned minutes to San Francisco's Montgomery Street, and, of course, even closer to Oakland's business center," Polk said.

"Highway 680 serves not only Oakland and San Francisco, but the research and development facilities of Dublin and Livermore. San Jose and major East Bay Employment centers. Yet, when the day's work is done, it's home to rolling, wooded hills and an atmosphere like that of another, easier age.

Among numerous features included in the purchase price are: wet bars; shake roofs; all electric kitchens with dishwashers and double ovens, (one self cleaning); wall to wall carpeting; and numerous other features.

Home building cost went up

San Francisco — The cost of building a single-family home rose 14.2 percent in the San Francisco Bay Area in the year ended September 30, according to a quarterly study by Bank of America.

The cost of constructing a "standard quality, semi-custom" house was $48,830 at the end of September, compared with $42,750 a year earlier.

The percentage of increase exceeded the 13.4 percent rise for the 12 months ended June 30, the study showed.

The study, prepared by the bank's appraisal department, is based on interviews with subcontractors and materials suppliers in Bay Area counties. Not included are the cost of land, or indirect costs such as taxes, interest and property insurance.

The home plan the bank uses to price building costs includes a main building with 1,570 square feet of living area, a two-car garage of 446 square feet, and patios, driveways and walks covering a total of 837 square feet. The house contains three bedrooms, 1-¾ baths, living room, kitchen, family/dining room and laundry room.

Leading components of the overall cost of $48,830 were: overhead and profit, 12.7 percent; rough lumber, 11.7 percent; carpentry, 9.6 percent; plumbing, 7.4 percent; roofing, 7.2 percent; stucco, 4.7 percent; cabinets and counter tops, 4.5 percent; heating and sheet metal, 3.8 percent; gypsum wallboard, 4.0 percent; painting, 3.6 percent; and foundation, 3.6 percent.

Materials and labor accounted for almost 85 percent of the overall cost, according to the bank study. The remaining 15 percent was comprised of overhead, profit, fees for plans and specifications, and payments for worker's compensation, social security and unemployment insurance.

Big project in store for tiny Clayton

By JACK IVERS
Times Staff Writer

CLAYTON — A proposed 1,200-acre development that would knock Clayton out of the small-town category would be one of the biggest housing projects in the county.

Located a stone's throw from downtown, the Keller Ranch development could become the biggest thing to hit Clayton and surrounding areas since miners stopped coming here on payday to whoop it up.

It would open the door to an anticipated population of 20,000, increase traffic into Concord and Walnut Creek and add 1,500 students to schools already at or above capacity.

The phased development of 1,700 houses on 700 acres of the ranch would be spaced over a 10 year period. A portion of the site, mostly rolling hills and ridges, would be left as open space.

The development itself would also cause additional commercial and residential growth in the Clayton area, according to an Environmental Impact Report on the development prepared by Environmental Science Associates of San Francisco.

The report and possible effects of the development will be the subject of a public hearing before the Clayton City Council Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Clayton Community Center, Oak and Center streets.

Copies of the report are being loaned at the city offices, 6054 Main Street.

Another nearby development of 196 houses is being built on the former Easley estate just south of town on Marsh Creek Road.

More than 60 conditions have been placed on the developer, Pacific Coast Construction Co., by city officials.

An eventual population of the Clayton area is estimated at 20,000, according to figures in the report.

The land has been a cattle ranch for almost a century, since a virus wiped out a promising grape crop.

The formal entrance to the ranch, off Main Street, is to be preserved along with the Keller House, built in 1912.

Increased traffic from the development would require construction of an extension to Concord Boulevard, and the report recommends widening Concord Boulevard and Clayton Road to four lanes to handle increasing traffic.

Clayton's Main Street should either be widened or made into a one-way street, the report recommends.

A series of trails would wind through the town for riding and hiking. The plan also provides for an additional 15 acres of commercial land north of Main Street, along with five acres of land for public facilities.

Indian burial grounds on the site should be investigated by an archeologist and representatives of the Native American Heritage Commission to see if the sites should be preserved, the report states.

Alternatives to the project, according to the report, include a lower density development, acquisition of the entire site as a permanent open space or a contour plan which would minimize the proposed rearrangement of three million cubic yards of dirt.

Bathrooms fill the tub with luxury

At one time bathing was a luxury, a peaceful retreat from the activities of the day. Some of that luxury is again coming to the fore as new home builders are placing more and more emphasis on commodious, lavish bathrooms.

At Crow Canyon Country Club, located near Danville, Broadmoor Homes has installed over-sized, Roman-styled tubs in all the master suites of the Country Estates homes.

These specialized tubs with ceramic tile wainscot are just one of the luxury highlights. Master baths contain such extra touches as double pullmans with cultured marble tops and integral oval lavatories.

Above the pullmans are full-width, plate glass mirrors and shadlow-free luminous soffit lighting. Designer selected widespread faucet sets and single level mixing valve in tub and shower are additional features. Ceramic tile surrounds shower and bath areas, and separate spacious dressing areas have mirrored wardrobe doors.

Each master bedroom in the Country Estate series at Crow Canyon easily accommodates a king size bed — in addition to other furniture. One plan, the Woodside, even has an open sitting room for further enjoyment and privacy.

Four plans are included in the Country Estate series. These range in size from 1,858 to 2,808 square feet of living area. Prices are from $109,000 to $181,000.

Included in the overall realm of architectural design are high sloping ceilings, sunken living rooms, formal dining rooms and wet bars.

Elegantly appointed kitchens have luminous ceilings, built-in pantries, ceramic tile counter tops, furniture-finished hardwood cabinets and all-electric built-ins.

Largest of the four plans is the two-story Woodside. In its 2,808 square feet are four bedrooms, three baths and family room. The sole downstairs bedroom has its own full bath.

The Piedmont, also a two story with four bedrooms, three baths and family room is 2,576 square feet. A unique feature of this home is an impressive stairway with a planter below and a midway balcony which becomes an attractive architectural highlight from the entrance and the major living areas. Spacious baths are situated on both levels.

Next in size is the 2,182-square-foot Hillsborough. In its single-story design are four bedrooms and two and a half baths.

Most compact of the Country Estate series is the 1,858-square-foot Atherton. Also a single-story, it has three bedrooms and two baths.

Neighborhood amenities at Crow Canyon Country Club include an 18-hole championship caliber golf course, six neighborhood parks and pools and a 34,000 square foot clubhouse with two dining areas, snack bar, grill rooms, cocktail bar, dance floor, golf and tennis pro shops and locker rooms with jacuzzi spas.

Accompanying these recreational features are a tennis complex with 13 lighted courts and an AAU competition size swimming pool.

The private golf, tennis and clubhouse facilities will occupy some 100 acres of the total planned community, with nearly 100 additional acres of parks and open space.

Crow Canyon Country Club may be reached by taking Highway 680 to the Crow Canyon exit east and on directly to the community.

Spacious baths are featured at Crow Canyon Country Club.

Twin Creeks is Building

With nearly all houses sold in the first phase of development, Dame Homes' Twin Creeks South subdivision in Danville plans to open a second phase soon.

The construction company plans to build 998 houses on 260 acres of land adjacent to the present development 260 acres of land adjacent to the present development on Norris Canyon Road, notes Charlene Hallenbeck, sales manager of the subdivision.

She said about 75 per cent of the new houses will be single family homes.

Only 15 houses remain in the current unit of 153 houses. Grand opening for the first unit was less than a month ago.

Dame also offers two other types of housing in the subdivision — 90 courtside homes and 75 poolside homes in clusters 10 to 12 surrounding a swimming pool.

New Housing Starts May Decline in 1978

The number of single family houses expected to be built next year should be about 200,000 less than this year, predicts the National Association of Home Builders.

Projections for new housing starts next year are as low as 1.75 million — a drop from the 1.95 million anticipated this year.

Charles Partee a governor of the Federal Reserve Board commented at a builders' conference that a slowdown in housing might not be a "bad thing."

County planners favor ridgetop park project

HAYWARD — Approval of a five-home development on 720 acres next to Pleasanton's Walter Johnson ridgetop park property has been recommended by the Alameda County planning staff.

Preserve Area Ridgelands Committee and Margaret have filed appeals against the development prosposed by Sinbad 820.

The planning commission will hear the appeal at 1:30 p.m. tomarrow in the county public works building, 399 Elmhurst.

The proposed development would be at the north end of Kilkare Road and between the Pleasanton park and Carl Nipper's proposed 120 unit development because they think the ridgelands ought to remain in agricultural use.

The staff says that Sinbad 720 is meeting all of the county's requirements by developing the five homes on five parcels of at least 100 acres, the standard agricultural building site in the county.

Tracy envisions a 1,300 square mile ridgelands preserve administered either by regional government or perhaps, like Adirondak State Park in New York, by a commission appointed by the governor.

The New York state land preserve has both public and private land covering 9,000 square miles. The governing commission approves or denies development applaications based on a plan that was developed for the area.

Tracy thinks the planning commission should at least hold off a decision on Sinbad 720 until it digests and comments on the ridgelands study recently done by three counties and referred out to county commissions by the board of supervisors.

They live in a house of the future

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Charles and Elaine Swain live the way many of us may be living years from now.

What's different about the way they live may not immediately grab your attention: a strange, occasional hum from beneath the floor, a habit they have of closing their shutters in the daytime, an unusual tint to some of their household water.

But scientists hope that in a year's time, the Swains will have used as little as half the water and a third the energy that an ordinary American household now consumes.

The Swains and their two children, 17 - year - old Carol and 12 year - old Charles, are the family in Tech House, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration experiment in saving energy and water.

All the equipment in the Tech House at NASA'a Research Center here is commercially available, or will be within five years. By then, given mass production of the equipment, the house probably could be built for about $50,000, the agency said.

The idea behind the experiment, which is costing $150.000, is "to tinker a bit to learn how we can save the most ... to find out what the most efficient way is to run the systems," said NASA technician Ira Abbott.

The Swains have lived in the Tech House since Aug. 15 and will be there a year. So far, they say, their life with advanced conservation equipment seems quite normal.

"The only thing I'm aware of to any great extent is the shutters on the windows," said Mrs. Swain. The vented shutters are manipulated from the inside and can completely seal the windows to save on air conditioning in summer and heating in winter.

The Tech House is a one - story, gray - green wooden structure. It's remarkable at first sight only because of the odd angles to the roof, like two obtuse triangles atop the house. On the south side of each triangle is a flat black plate that gathers solar energy for heat.

A computer regulates temperatures in rooms individually, according to the Swain's weekday and weekend schedules, to avoid heating or cooling rooms that aren't in use.

And the Tech House water system cholorinates, filters and recycles waste water from sinks, shower and laundry equipment for use as toilet flush water.

It is this system that makes the strange hum under the floor. It's also because of the system that water in the toilet bowl may be slightly blue after the two young Swains wash their jeans.

The major energy savings will show up in the winter, but after more than a month with a family, the Tech House "is doing a pretty good job," said Abbott, who visits the Swains' garage daily to read the monitoring equipment there.

Swain, a religion professor from Florida State University, was chosen by NASA from a pool of academics whose services are made available to the government on loan for year - long periods.

The family pays $100 a month for rent and utilities.

While at the research facility here, Swain is helping to set up an education resource center for NASA employees and is advising apency officials about setting up a career counseling program.

real estate observations

By BILL HAYWARD

The multi-million dollar rain that fell this past week in the central portion of the state was absolutely fantastic, ever welcome and, in fact, a blessing.

We had picked up several inches of rainfall - something hard to believe after waiting for over two years for something more than a sprinkle.

Why is it worth many millions of dollars?

Well, to tell the truth, we have never thought of the rain as a completely separate worth factor. My memory goes back over 60 years around these parts, and we always took rain as an expected function of the seasons.

In the early 1920s, and we suppose it's the same today, fog was the winter thing.

The winter temperatures in Berkeley ranged from a mild daytime high of 60 degrees to nights around 48 degrees.

In the summer, lows were around 55 and the high temperature rarely topped 75 degrees.

Everybody had a coat or sweater, rain or shine.

And rain was inevitable for some four winter months. Usually there was about 20 inches of rainfall per year.

This week's mini-storm was indeed a rare treat.

Passing pedestrians on the streets in the pouring rain, I heard comments about what a beautiful day it was. We haven't seen a little kid strolling home from school skipping through the water for almost three years.

This caused one tyke to tell his mother that his shoes leaked (from the bottom).

We may now see some green grass this spring.

Maybe a lawn or garden will be revived by the little drenching.

It is always warmer in the mid-county area when it rains, so less heat is consumed. In the high Sierra, snows will bank and ice will form above the 8,000 foot level for storage of precious water.

Lakes will catch some of the direct downfall as will the dams that supply power and light. There is bound to be some run-off from this storm.

Agriculture will benefit, hopefully. Some of the ranchers and farmers always get caught in the off-season weather, though. Some say it spoils the grapes or tomatoes. Others defend the wheat crop or alfalfa. Some suffer over lost fruit crops.

Cattle need grass, but everyone needs rain.

Just the matter of rain settling the dust and clearing the air is a magnificent thing to behold. Cleanly washed streets and the removal of allergy-causing pollen from the air is another thing we can enjoy.

Raincoats and umbrellas were on the go this week.

And roofing contractors were busy again.

Slick old tires were being replaced for "winter safety." Many folk were buying snow chains for a run to the mountains for a weekend of chilly outdoor fun with the kids.

Some "rear-enders" and a couple of "fender benders" caused tow trucks to haul cars to the auto patchworks after the wet roads tuaght drivers the annual lesson.

The usual irritating occurrences included television cable service giving out during the middle of some special programs and several cars were hard to start from wet or damp ignition wires.

It's all in the game.

We hope that the multi-million dollar rain keeps up at a comfortable pace - at least to stockpile enough water to ease the future storage problem.

Maybe the underground water table will rise a bit to make more well water available.

Keep on the water ration until we see the full results of this delightful rain.
